This 1950's view of the south side of East Main Street, almost opposite Maple Avenue, shows the Rex bar and grille and part of the Jack and Jerry store.

In the 1930's this Shell gas station stood on East Main Street, just west of the Post Office. In the background the Patchogue Diner and the Roe mansion are visible.
