

The rebuilt entrance and the new marquee. The theater closed from November 22 to December 17, 1982 to remodel it into a Triplex Theater. Up to this time the theater had shown only first rate movies, but from now on it would show only second rate movies at a much reduced price. The conversion of the theater into a triplex theater was still not enough to compete with the multiplex theaters in the area and the theater closed its doors in 1988. TCI Communications purchased the theater.

Mayor Waldbauer welcomes Bette Davis and Olivia De Havilland to Patchogue in 1965. The occasion was the opening of the film "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte", in which both had leading roles.