

A picture of Weeks boat yard in 1904. This boat yard is the oldest yard on the river, still as busy today as ever.

Gil Smith's boat shed was dismantled in 1968. Gil built boats here until 1936, when a stroke ended his working days at the age of 93.
