

Monsignor Cronin, pastor of the St. Francis de Sales Church, founded Seton Hall High School in 1937. Classes were held in 4 bungalows on Leo Street, near the foot of South Ocean Avenue. Each bungalow was partitioned into 2 classrooms. In the fall of 1952 the school moved to the new Seton Hall High School building on Roe Boulevard. This picture shows students on Leo Street. Two of the schools bungalows can be seen in the background.

Seton Hall added a combination auditorium / gym building to the school on the northeast corner of South Ocean Avenue and Harrison Street. The dedication took place on November 11, 1942. This auditorium became a YMCA October 6, 1955 and in later years a church. Part of the auditorium can be seen on the left in this picture and some of the bungalows are visible in the background.
