

A thriving business called for the expansion of the restaurant and a large extension was added in 1975. The small building on the left is Mickey's Clam Bar.

The V.I.P. Room in the new addition.

The enclosing of the porch enlarged the seating capacity, creating this dining area, the Oak Room.

Mickey Felice's restaurant at the foot of South Ocean Avenue, next to the water, was especially vulnerable to flooding, as these pictures show, but surprisingly not a drop of water entered the restaurant during hurricane Gloria.