

The trolley taken a dip in the West Lake. Luckily nobody got hurt , only a lady got terribly frightened and wound up with wet feet. These were light cars with a short wheel base , prone to jump the rails with little provocation.

A new trolley arriving at the Patchogue station.

A stopover in Blue Point on the way to Sayville.