The Smith Homestead at the foot of South Ocean Avenue as it looked in 1900. The home has not changed much to this day.

The Colby Ice Cream Parlor on the southeast corner of South Ocean Avenue and Smith Street. It was actually a home, and only the corner living room was used for serving ice cream. The house was part of the Smith property, and in Ruth Smith's will was willed to Esther May Colby and moved to 20 Lee Avenue in 1917.
